

if the end product is
quality software, why
can't designers code?

Design is one of the most significant department while building a startup product and also working on an open-source project.
