

Coming up with alternative design patterns, but raising an issue in relation to why, how and timeline

Prototype your designs properly if you are contributing to an OS project where they care less about design so as to convince them of how this feature is supposed to work and not the way it currently works.

