Prototype your designs properly if you are contributing to an OS project where they careless about design so as to convince them of how this feature is supposed to work and not the way it currently works.

Crappy things
some engineers
say about design.